

Hola amigos!

I'm Julia, a Spanish native raised and educated in the UK with experience in teaching and interpreting languages with an ever more passion to enhance language learning. I spent a year in the beautiful, Spanish northwestern city of Salamanca, teaching at a secondary school. I fell in love with teaching whilst being able to connect with the culture and people, and this is something I think everyone should be able to experience; bringing language and culture together to create a better teaching experience for you!

A little more about me:

Since graduating in 2019 with BA Honours degree in English and Spanish studies, I've immersed myself into the linguistic and educative world, teaching Spanish as a second language as well as offering private tuition in English and literature. In my lessons, you will always learn something new and interesting through educational activities and taught theory that will help guide you through understanding Spanish language. You'll feel more confident in being able to speak another language alongside longing to visit its country! I have also for the last three years, been interpreting between Spanish and English, breaking down that language barrier for those who are unfamiliar with the English language. I have been in Bristol for a couple of years, and it is an amazing city to get to know new and friendly people, different cultures and ways of life: The perfect environment to learn and enhance in your language skills. Find out what it could lead to for you!
